

IRELAND NEEDS OUR AID.APPEAL OF THE IRISH NATIONAL FEDERATION OF AMERICA.

Parliament Must Be Dissolved and Money Is Needed to Issue the Irish Party Votes Enough to Hold the Balance of Power in the Next Parliament.

The following appeal has been issued by the Irish National Federation of America in response to an urgent appeal from the Irish national party:

FELLOW COUNTRYMEN AND FRIENDS OF HOME RULE: The Liberal Ministry has resigned. Ireland is once more to face the authors of the policy of coercion and colonial rule. The long-pending dissolution of the British Parliament will follow quickly. From the time when the House of Lords rejected the Home Rule bill it was inevitable. Good faith to the Liberal constituents demanded that the Liberal Ministry should not resign without an effort to pass the other reformatory measures embodied in the Newcastle programme.

The Irish party has kept faith in letter and spirit under very trying circumstances with the Liberal party and performed its share of the compact, viz.: "Mutual support in the passage of reformatory measures for Great Britain and Ireland; home rule to have first place." Pending dissolution, the Irish party obtained a commission on the financial relations of Great Britain and Ireland, whose report establishes the injustice of past relations and will save Ireland millions of revenue in the future. The report of the Land Commission establishes beyond question the landlord robberies of the past and confirms to the tenant the absolute ownership of all improvements made since 1850. They have also effected the release of a large number of tenants.

In Ireland the strife and heated partisanship witnessed at the last general election has been largely allayed by the speedier, prudenter, and more statesmanlike conduct of the party. The Unionists of the North have come to see that a common interest demands a common protection from the rapacity of the landlords, and large numbers of opponents of the political opponents, have endorsed the Irish party.

This has given the political atmosphere been cleared and the way is now open for the final dissolution between the rejection of the Home Rule bill.

Ireland is to-day in better position to force her case than she has ever before been. With the Liberal party pledged to the support of home rule in the future, England can have no stand Government and know peace until to Ireland is given the right of self-government. The general depression in business has deprived the Irish party of the financial support hitherto obtained in Australia, Canada, and the United States.

The Irish people have made great sacrifices to maintain the contest from their own slender resources, and have been compelled to seek immediate financial support to enable them to go back with an increased vote to hold the balance of power again in the next Parliament and win the day. All they ask is that the bill be passed.

The witness said that on the day of the robbery he met Allen, Killoran, Russell, and another man at the hotel bar. At 8 o'clock the men were together and each carried a valise. Killoran and Russell came separately about half past the hour. In a short time afterward the valises disappeared and a carriage passed him going east.

The witness said that he told his employer at the time of the robbery that he had seen the robbers. He told the District Attorney at the same time. This was five hours before the robbery was done. He could give no explanation as to the prosecution.

The case was adjourned until 1 o'clock to-day.

KILLORAN, ALLEN, AND RUSSELL

Were All Seen in Springfield at the Time of the Robbery.

The examination of the dislodged Post Office robbers, Joseph Killoran, Charles Allen, and Henry Russell, accused of robbing the Springfield, Ill., Post Office of $40,000 worth of postage stamps, was continued yesterday before United States Commissioner Shields in the Federal building.

James Flanagan, who keeps a livery stable at Waverly, twenty-five miles from Springfield, testified as to Killoran hiring a horse and surrey from him on April 2, the day before the robbery. Three days afterward, he received a letter that his horse and wagon were left near Zanesville, thirty miles away.

George W. Schevers, a bartender at Springfield, testified that Killoran and Allen entered the saloon where he was, with two other men, on March 10. They went into a rear room and remained there two hours. He said he saw Killoran, Allen, and Russell on the streets of Springfield on April 3 about noon time. They were coming from toward the Post Office. Allen, he said, was carrying a valise.

"Was it heavy?" asked Mr. Hall.
"He pretended it was not."

Allen, he said, was sitting in a chair when he heard Russell say, "Why, he would only allow me 30 per cent, and I couldn't take that."

"Of course not," Allen said in reply. Schevers said three men got in a carriage and drove away.

On cross-examination Schevers said that on March 10 he saw Killoran and Allen ride a carriage to a livery stable. A short time afterward he saw the team in front of Leland's Hotel. He looked into the hotel barroom and saw the two men at the bar.

"'Were you following them?' asked Lawyer Rose.

"I looked in by request,"
"A deputy sheriff's?"

Sheriff Marks had asked him to see if the men were inside. He couldn't say what exactly the conversation was, as this was several days before the robbery.

REDUCED HER BUSTLE.

It Was a Cigar Box and Contained Money, Silverware, and Jewelry.

Policemen Finnin and Cody saw a woman wearing an unusually large and awkward-looking bustle in the Pennsylvania Railroad waiting room, in Jersey City, yesterday morning. They took her to the Gregory street station. She gave her name as Annie Nevin, and said she lived in this city. She was sent to a private room to remove the bustle. She returned with a cigar box in her hand and without the bustle. The box contained $64 in gold notes, $36.00 in silver, $2 in dimes and nickels, three knives, a brooch, a gold band, and a silver ring.

She had a card addressed to the Business Men's Relief Committee of this city saying that the circumstances of Miss E. Briley of 24 Lewis street had been investigated, and she is to be given a sum to tide her over until she gets work in New York. The card was signed T. J. Turner, Church Society, 80 Livingston street. Police Commissioner Potts said when she got the money, "I am surprised to find it was awarded, and refused to make any further explanation. Justice Potts remanded her until Chief Magistrate may have her case investigated.

TO DO AWAY WITH STRIKES.

The Piece-rate System Which Has Been Successful for Ten Years in One Mill.

Berlour, June 27.—The chief topic discussed by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at this morning's session was a paper by A. W. Taylor of Philadelphia on "Piece-rate System" as a step toward partial solution of the labor problem. Mr. Taylor held that the ordinary piece-rate system was an injustice to employees. He described the system of management introduced by him in the works of the Middlesex Company in Philadelphia, which had been adopted in the four years for the most satisfactory results. The system consists of offering two rates for the same job, a high rate for the job as finished in the shortest possible time and a low rate for the job if it takes a longer time to do the job or if there are any imperfections in the work. He said that the system is successful with men who are incurably lazy or inferior; it promotes a friendly feeling between men and their employers and renders labor unions and strikes unnecessary.

Mr. Taylor said there had not been a strike under this system of piece work since it had been in operation in the steel business.
